POLAND'S PEACE

The republic of Poland has made peace with the soviet government of Russia, thereby giving a certain recognition to the Russian reds which will be used by them to press their claims against other nations of Europe. Great Britain deceives herself in the belief that commercial relations may be resumed without official recognition in spirit at least.

The Poles fought bravely against the invasion of the Russians last year, but there is a limit beyond which they are not able to go in defending themselves against Russia. They have done the only thing that could be done in justice to themselves: entered into an agreement to live in peace with their neighbor on the east. The Russo-Polish treaty gives considerable territorial advantage to Poland, and the Russians agree to pay $15,000,000 to Poland in the way of indemnity for damage caused by the war. Poland will do quite well if the soviet government of Russia keeps the pledges which have been made in terms of the peace treaty.

Having agreed to cease military operations against each other, the Russians and Poles also agree to guard against any propaganda that would impair either government. Russia will not try to spread bolshevism in Poland, and Poland will put a ban on anti-bolshevist activities in Poland. The sovereign rule of each state is recognized. There seems to be no reason why Poland should not open trade relations with the Russians, since Great Britain, which can have no reasons like those of Poland, proposes to get all the commercial advantages possible out of Russia.

BUT IT WAS A GIRL

History has been sadly balked by events. The widow of King Alexander of Greece has given birth to a daughter.

Had the baby been a boy, there would be a pretender to the Greek throne. The ways of a pretender are peculiar. First his friends keep in his mind that he is being done out of something. When this conviction nags him into action, the pretender stirs himself and, usually, is offered a pension. If it is a sufficient pension and he can dodge his friends he goes to England or Switzerland and lives happily ever after. If his friends see him first he uses the pension to promote a conspiracy with the throne as his objective. But, always, to the day of his death, he is a center of trouble.

Madame Aspasia Manos was the morganatic wife of Alexander. Constantine and his group made desperate efforts to have her treated as the old-fashioned morganatic wife and ignored. This the Greek people refused to do, for some sentimental reason or other, and there is no doubt had Alexander lived, popular enthusiasm would have endorsed Madame Manos as his consort. Only recently the Greek courts defied Constantine and turned over Alexander's property to his wife.

If a boy had been born the Constantine opposition, as usual, would have resolved the public into permanent sympathy with the widow and the pretender. Then there would have been doings.

But it was a girl.

LADDIE BOY

There is one appointment of President Harding's that will meet with universal approval. And it will be generally recognized that the new officeholder is likely to be one of the most faithful friends, in fair weather and foul, that the president could have.

This is Laddie Boy, the air-dale pup who has been honored as official dog to the president. Laddie Boy may not be as wise as some of the statesmen whom he will meet with his master. But he will prove as honest as most of them. He may not be able to serve the nation with such glory as a good many, but he will fulfill his duties with less selfishness, and will expect less reward.

Happy, indeed, would the president be if he could get as good performance from every public servant as from this one. Laddie Boy, if treated well, will go through fire for his master. If treated ill, he will do the same. If kicked, he will be hurt, but all will be forgiven in an instant. A pat on the head, the chance to chase a stick, a bone to gnaw and a kennel to lie in. That

GERMAN IMMIGRATION TO MEXICO DECREASES

The Associated Press

MEXICO CITY, Mexico, April 8.—German immigration to Mexico has so decreased that not more than 600 have entered the country since the end of the war. German officials have urged their countrymen not to migrate here at present, but rather to avail themselves of the facilities offered for settlement in the South American republics of Argentina, Uruguay and Paraguay. Information in this effect was given at the German embassy following inquiries as to newspaper reports here that an official request had been made in behalf of Germans for a concession of about 70,000 acres of land in Coahuila.

Denial was made that the Coahuila concession in question pertained to German citizens. Counselor Fuhr asserting that the request was made by naturalized Germans in the United States, principally from Texas, who wished to form a colony near Las Vacas, Coahuila, and desert their American homes.

"The only pretentious emigration from Germany to Mexico ended in failure," Counselor Fuhr asserted. "Shortly after the end of the war a colonization company was formed of several hundred members who pooled their resources and purchased German goods estimated to bring $800,000 when sold in Mexico."

"Two men were appointed to accompany the goods but unfortunately after they disposed of them they pocketed the money and have disappeared. Meanwhile the would-be colonists embarked for Mexico in large numbers but since their arrivals here they have been virtual wards of the permanent German colony in Mexico City inasmuch as they had invested all their funds in the defunct company. One of the colonists, for instance, was a former German vice-admiral. He is now working as a laborer with a surveying gang and is glad of the chance."

Declaration was made further that the Mexican government as yet has offered no inducement for German immigration beyond mere transportation from the port of entry to the place of settlement. Contrasted to this is the policy inaugurated by the "Plata republics," Argentina, Uruguay and Paraguay, whereby colonists of established worth are provided with free passage from Germany and liberal grants of land. Until other facilities are offered by Mexico and "homesteading" is made practicable, Counselor Fuhr said his countrymen would be advised to stay away.

The average man overworks his politics a great deal more than he does his religion.

CALIFORNIA PETROLEUM AND REFINING COMPANY

OF COLUSA COUNTY, CALIFORNIA

THE OIL INDUSTRY, this company owns a perpetual lease upon 720 acres, right in the heart of the new oil district in Colusa County California and is now prepared to take subscriptions for treasury stock. The directors of this company a short time ago, authorized the sale of 100,000 shares of the Treasury stock at 25c per share, but since that time the company has practically made arrangements with the California Corporation Commission to sell its stock in that state, and when those arrangements have been completed the company will open an office either in San Francisco or Los Angeles and the price of the stock will be raised to 50c per share.

STATEMENT OF MR. T. J. MEDDOCK
THE CALIFORNIA PETROLEUM AND REFINING COMPANY

Gentlemen:

I take pleasure in sending you a brief statement upon your oil holdings of Colusa Co. California.

First of all, you are centrally located in what is almost certain to be in the near future one of the great oil producing districts of California. Next in line is that most wonderful structure commonly called a "dome" or sign post for geologists. Undoubtedly this dome was forced up by great pressure, for it seemingly has no connection whatever with a glacier slide, considering the distance it lies from the nearest mountains, which is a low range, and practically only foothills.

TO THE PUBLIC

After studying the outlines of this wonderful structure in the picture herewith presented and considering its significance in the oil world you should not fail to grasp the opportunity now available, visit our office now open, and see samples of oil produced in that district. The highest grade lubricating oil yet discovered, and brings the highest price paid for a crude product, also specimens of the formation, an oil shale with all sorts of fossils and shells cemented together. Although the district is quite new there are many drills now at work and many more will be working soon.

The quality of the oil produced in that section is almost without an equal, and according to a cross section map made by the Tuscan Oil Company which is operating in that district, which I have examined thoroughly, and no doubt that company has proven to be correct, by the drillings of their well. I find that the formation and all surface indications are most excellent. After a further and more thorough examination which I will make very soon I will forward to you a full detailed report, and the possibility of your property.

Respectfully
(Signed) T. J. MEDDOCK,
Licensed and Authorized Engineer of the State of California.
